

NUTRITION EXCHANGE

What is Nutrition Exchange?

Nutrition Exchange is an ENN publication that contains short, easy-to-read articles on nutrition programme experiences and learning, from countries with a high burden of malnutrition and those that are prone to crisis. It also summarises research and provides information on guidance, tools and upcoming trainings in nutrition and related sectors.

Who is it for?

Nutrition Exchange is for all those working to reduce levels of malnutrition at the national, district and community level. This includes Government, Civil Society, International and National Agency staff working in nutrition, including agriculture, health, education, water and sanitation and the social protection sectors.

How can you write something for publication in Nutrition Exchange?

Practitioners from around the world would like to learn from your experiences of nutrition programme implementation, so why not publish your experiences in Nutrition Exchange?

1 Choose a topic to write about

For example, you may want to focus on:

- What is working well in your area of work or what is not working as well as you had hoped.
- The impact of a programme.
- How a programme is being implemented.
- How you are monitoring and evaluating your work.

We are particularly interested in how you are working with communities, other sectors, and innovative ideas in programming.

2 Send us an email with some of your ideas

– bullet points will do.

3 We will review your ideas

and contact you with our thoughts on how you can write them up.

We can provide you with editorial support.

4 We will help you to produce an article of 500-600 words

describing your experiences.
